HEADLINE: Vision BI Unveils 2026 Strategy to Solve Australian Business's Multi-Million Dollar "Information Leak" Problem

Gold Coast, Queensland - Vision BI, the "Anti-IT" Business Intelligence firm led by Chartered Accountant Matthew Dodds, has today announced a major strategic pivot aimed at reclaiming operational "truth" for Australian mid-market enterprises.

The announcement comes as Australian businesses face unprecedented regulatory and financial pressure, including the transition to "Payday Super" and a volatile economic climate where manual reporting errors are costing firms millions in unbilled revenue and stalled cash flow.

"Most Australian business owners are currently flying blind," says Matthew Dodds, Director of Vision BI.

"They are relying on manual, error-prone reports that are out of date the moment they are printed. We've seen single reporting errors hide over $100,000 in unrecorded billable work. In 2026, that is the difference between growth and insolvency."

Vision BI's 2026 roadmap focuses on "Native BI" sovereignty, moving away from the restrictive "per-seat" embedded reporting models offered by national competitors.

By delivering customized reporting within a client's own Microsoft Azure environment, Vision BI ensures that businesses maintain total control over their data while accessing enterprise-grade predictive analytics.

The firm is also launching a specialised Three-Way Forecasting product to help SME professional practices navigate the working-capital challenges of the new same-day superannuation laws.

"We are moving from a bespoke service model to a productised practice reporting model," Dodds adds.

"Our goal is to give every accountant and business owner a 'single pane of glass' view of their operations. When you can see the truth of your data in real-time, you move from being a reactive manager to a proactive advisor."
